About NASPA

NASPA – Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education (www.naspa.org) is the leading association for the advancement, health, and sustainability of the student affairs profession. We serve a full range of professionals who provide programs, experiences, and services that cultivate student learning and success in concert with the missions of our colleges and universities.

Established in 1918 and founded in 1919, NASPA is comprised of 15,000 members in 50 states, 25 countries, and 8 U.S. Territories. Through high-quality professional development, strong policy advocacy, and substantive research to inform practice, NASPA meets the diverse needs and invests in realizing the potential of all its members under the guiding principles of integrity, innovation, inclusion, and inquiry.

VISION

NASPA is the leading voice for the student affairs profession.

MISSION

To be the principal source for leadership, scholarship, professional development, and advocacy for student affairs.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

Integrity Committed to high moral principles exhibiting authentic, honest, just, and ethical behavior.

Innovation Continuously seeking improvement through new and creative approaches.

Inclusion Seeking ways to ensure access, voice, acknowledgement, opportunity, and participation at all levels.

Inquiry Supporting research and scholarship to add to the knowledge base of the profession and ensure that data informs practice.

Welcome!

Dear NASPA Colleagues,

We are pleased to welcome you to the 100th gathering of our Association! From our early days of supporting college student personnel to the innovation of today's student affairs educator, NASPA has evolved to support a vibrant network of engaged administrators supporting student success. These efforts include ongoing education (teaching and learning), leadership development, and research and scholarship efforts that improve the profession.

The 100th Conference celebrates our four guiding principles of Integrity, Innovation, Inclusion, and Inquiry and provide a framework for this year's event. Throughout the event, we have embedded the dimensions of looking back and looking forward to the future of the student affairs profession. The featured speakers, program presenters, and Association leaders will engage participants in a robust discussion on how to navigate the daunting changes in higher education and the challenging times ahead. Student affairs must be relentless in supporting students throughout their educational process. We must not only develop greater access and affordability of higher education, but we must develop programs, services, and opportunities that will provide graduating students with world-ready skills.

On behalf of the NASPA Board of Directors and the 2018 NASPA Annual Conference Leadership Committee, we are excited to welcome you to Philadelphia, the birthplace of the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution. As one of America's most historic cities, we hope you take some time to see the city murals, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Rodin Museum, Independence National Historical Park and the Liberty Bell, and eat a Philly (vegan, chicken, turkey, or regular) cheesesteak.

We applaud you for your continued commitment to your own professional development. We hope you enjoy the conference!

GENERAL INFORMATION AND HIGHLIGHTS

Indigenous Peoples' Welcome in Philadelphia

The NASPA Board of Directors and the NASPA Indigenous Peoples Knowledge Community developed a formal protocol where our Association acknowledges the people indigenous to the land and territory on which we meet as a sign of respect. By inviting a local Elder and/or community leader to participate in the meeting in a meaningful way, NASPA recognizes the nation's indigenous people's history and endeavors to share a few of the cultural traditions and customs with the participants of the NASPA Annual Conference.

In Philadelphia, we welcome Denise "Bright Dove" Ashton-Dunkley who will join us at the Opening Session. Bright Dove is an award winning Master Artisan and Educator of Nanticoke Lenni-Lenape culture. Her artwork is currently displayed at the University of Pennsylvania Museum. A tribal member of the Nanticoke Lenni-Lenape Indians of New Jersey, she actively educates other members and the public on Nanticoke Lenni-Lenape culture—past and present.

NASPA's 100th Anniversary

In December 1918, Robert Rienow, the dean of men at the University of Iowa, wrote a letter to Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men at the University of Illinois, suggesting a meeting that is now recognized as the founding of the NASPA - Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education. They agreed to establish the group that December and by way of celebrating that agreement, NASPA celebrates its 100th conference in Philadelphia, PA!

From the original meeting of those six men in January of 1919 to today's nearly 8,000 attendees, NASPA has grown and expanded to the comprehensive professional organization with research, scholarship, and professional development that supports over 15,000 individual members and over 2,000 institutions. We meet annually to network, participate in professional development, and reconnect with those who are part of our extended student affairs family.

During this 100th meeting, we will begin a year-long celebration from March 2018 through March 2019. The 100th Anniversary Planning Committee has been developing programs, activities, and events that will take place throughout the year – beginning here in Philadelphia and culminating in Los Angeles in 2019!

Join your colleagues on the Terrace Level of the Convention Center to participate in the NASPA Chronicles, a "StoryCorps" opportunity to interview your mentors, tell a story, or simply share how NASPA has made an impact on your student affairs career. Add a picture to the NASPA Family Tree Mosaic, and view some of the recordings of past NASPA leaders who helped to shape how the Association operates today!

Second-year Graduate Student Case Study Competition Monday, March 5, 8:00 a.m. – 2:00 p.m.

Teams will be given a thought-provoking case study relevant to the field of student affairs and present their solutions to a panel of judges. All participants must have pre-registered for this program and participated in an online orientation webinar prior to the conference.

CELL PHONES

As a courtesy to presenters, speakers, and attendees, please switch cell phones to silent mode during educational sessions and other speaking engagements. Please leave the session when answering calls. While live tweeting from sessions is generally encouraged for those colleagues who cannot be in attendance, please be respectful of the varying level of comfort of presenters and other participants.

CENTER FOR FIRST-GENERATION STUDENT SUCCESS

The Center, a new initiative of NASPA and The Suder Foundation, serves as the premiere source of evidence-based practices, professional development, and knowledge creation for the higher education community to advance the success of first-generation students. Visit the Center at the NASPA Initiatives Booth in the Exhibit Hall to learn about the workshops, educational sessions, and events being hosted during the 2018 Annual Conference and how you may engage with the Center in the future. If you identify as a first-generation college student, please take a "first-gen" name tag ribbon at registration to wear with pride and spark important conversations with colleagues.

CONFERENCE BLOG AND SOCIAL MEDIA

The NASPA Annual Conference blog is found at conference2018.naspa.org/blog and will be updated regularly with highlights from the conference. From there you can also see the latest posts about the conference. Join the conversation by commenting on the blog or engaging on Twitter, Facebook, and Instagram with #NASPA18.

CONFERENCE EVALUATION

An overall conference evaluation will be emailed to all registered participants on Wednesday, March 7. At the end of each session, please evaluate the presenter. An opportunity to evaluate the content of each educational session attended will be included as part of the conference evaluation process. NASPA will not collect any paper evaluations as part of our effort to maintain a sustainable conference experience.

CONFERENCE HANDOUTS

Continuing NASPA's commitment to a sustainable environment, educational session presenters were asked not to bring paper handouts. Plan to bring recycled paper to take notes, knowing that presentations will be available for download from the NASPA website following the conference.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CREDITS

Continuing Education (CE) credits toward certification or recertification for counselors are available through NASPA. NASPA is an NBCC-Approved Continuing Education Provider (ACEPTM) and may offer NBCC-approved clock hours for sessions that meet NBCC requirements. The ACEP is solely responsible for all aspects of the program. Participants seeking credit will need to complete an NBCC form and complete an online evaluation of individual sessions in order to receive continuing education hours for this event. General certificates of attendance are also available for sessions that do not meet NBCC criteria. All continuing education forms can be obtained at on-site registration, Convention Center, Broad Street Atrium.

CORPORATE SESSIONS

Within the NASPA Annual Conference program book, you will notice a few programs that are labeled as "Corporate Sessions." These are educational program sessions provided by corporate sponsors of the 2018 NASPA Annual Conference. NASPA seeks support from corporations that support the Association's mission, values, and goals. NASPA does not endorse the products or services of any of its corporate sponsors, however, through our educational mission, NASPA provides opportunities for members to interact with our corporate partners.

DOCTORAL SEMINAR

Loews Hotel, Congress C

Sunday, March 4, 12:00 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

In this half-day program, part-time and full-time doctoral students will engage with seminar faculty in dialogue, activities, and strategy generation that will assist them in meeting their doctoral student goals. The seminar is structured with enough flexibility to ensure that individual interests and needs are addressed and includes time to network with faculty and doctoral student peers. Faculty Council members, Sherry Early, Marshall University-South Charleston Graduate Campus, and Jason Laker, San Jose State University, serve as lead facilitators for this seminar.

EQUITY, INCLUSION, & BIAS INCIDENT RESPONSE

NASPA holds professional conferences and meetings to enable its members to receive professional development, network with colleagues, and engage with the Association. The Association is committed to providing a harassment-free environment for all participants, regardless of gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, physical appearance, race, ethnicity, religion, or other individual or group identity. We value civil discourse and free exploration of competing ideas and concepts with a fundamental respect for the rights, dignity, and value of all persons. To report a bias incident, harassment, or equity and inclusion issue to NASPA leadership during the NASPA Annual Conference, visit the NASPA Onsite Office in Convention Center, Hall G.

EXHIBIT HALL

Convention Center, Exhibit Hall E

Join your colleagues and our corporate partners in the NASPA Exhibit Hall! Take advantage of the exciting array of displays and learn more about the companies and organizations and what they have to offer. Have your headshot taken, get a massage, stop by the poster session, visit the NASPA Initiatives Booth and be sure to participate in the Exhibitor Passport Raffle where you can walk away with a $500 Amazon Gift Card! GENDER PRONOUNS

As an Association that recognizes and appreciates diversity in relation to gender identity and expression, NASPA strives to create an inclusive environment at professional development events for all attendees. This effort is designed to allow attendees to indicate how they would like to be recognized.

During the registration process, we provide opportunities for individuals to indicate their gender pronoun. This effort is designed to reduce the discomfort that one may experience should one conference attendee reference another with an inaccurate pronoun. If you did not indicate a pronoun during the registration process but would like to add this to your name badge, or you would like to change it at any point during the conference and have a different pronoun on your badge, please visit the Badge Reprint Station, located at registration in the convention center to make adjustments. We encourage everyone to include their pronoun on their name badge!

INNOVATION STATION

Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 4

Monday, March 5 and Tuesday March 6, 8:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. By popular demand, we are bringing back the Innovation Station for a third year. And it's bigger and better than before. This is a unique space with the explicit goal of connecting attendees to innovative programs and new ways of thinking on campuses other than their own. With hand-picked presenters chosen for their expertise and session content, the Innovation Station area offers a wide range of topic areas including technology, assessment, and sexual violence prevention. Visit the Terrace Ballroom for a schedule of events.

LOST AND FOUND

If you find articles left behind by other conference attendees, please bring them to NASPA Onsite Office, Convention Center, Hall G. Articles not claimed by Wednesday, March 7 at 10:00 a.m. will be shipped back to the NASPA office in Washington, DC and held for approximately 30 days.

NAME BADGES

All conference participants are required to wear their name badges for admission to all sessions, the Exhibit Hall, and events. You will also receive tickets to other items such as pre-conference workshops, the awards lunch, the gala, or special receptions. Be sure to carry your badge and tickets with you in the conference spaces. The Philadelphia Convention Center has strict security requirements, and your badge is your entry to the conference.

NASPACTS IN PHILADELPHIA & RALLY FOR STUDENTS' RIGHTS

Convention Center, Exhibit Hall E

In light of policy changes and discriminatory legislation that has passed or has been proposed at the national and state levels that targets many minoritized populations, NASPA is providing several opportunities to show support to these communities and to highlight the myriad ways that student affairs professionals support these populations. NASPActs is providing a space at the conference where you can pick up a button, sign up to participate in the Rally for Students' Rights, make a sign indicating your personal support for the affected communities, and join in the #NASPActs photo campaign at #NASPA18! The Rally for Students' Rights will take place on Tuesday, March 6 from 2:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Please stop by the NASPActs booth in the Exhibit Hall to get details about the march route and rally locations.

NASPA Chronicles - Tell Your Story

The student affairs profession is known for the strength and depth of the bonds between colleagues and each gathering of our community illustrates the stories of how we have helped each other develop and grow in our careers. We invite you to choose a colleague to join you in the NASPA Chronicles booth and record a retelling of your story together: when you first met, how you recovered from a misstep, or what you're looking forward to as colleagues and friends. The chronicle of your story will be showcased as part of the Association's 100th Anniversary celebration.

NASPA Family Tree Mosaic

Help us commemorate the achievement of reaching our 100th year by adding yourself to our family portrait. NASPA members are truly a family and we want to represent the diversity of our members, their institutions, and their inspirations. Visit the mosaic in the Convention Center, 4th Floor Terrace Ballroom Fover and contribute your photo to complete the picture. See other's submissions on social media by searching #NASPAEverfiMosaic. NASPA Annual Conference Opening Session Jason Dorsey

Convention Center, Hall D

The NASPA Opening Session is not to be missed this year! Celebrate our 100th gathering with NASPA Board Chair, Deb Moriarty; NASPA Conference Chair, Kevin Bailey; and NASPA President, Kevin Kruger. We will take the opportunity to honor our Association's past, present, and future in this year's event.

Crossing the Generational Divide: Unlocking the Power of Generations

We work in a time of unprecedented generational challenge and change. Four generations in the workforce. Five generations in the marketplace. And making matters worse, there is a tremendous amount of misinformation around generational differences. What we know for a fact: Strategies that work for one generation can be a complete turn-off for others. This generational divide makes your job more difficult and more important than ever. In this provocative presentation, bestselling author Jason Dorsey exposes new generational truths that directly impact leaders like you. Jason shares surprising data, firsthand stories, and step-by-step actions.

Dorsey will join us for a book signing at the NASPA Bookstore, 8:30 a.m. on Monday, March 5th.

Monday, March 5

Professor in Residence, Department of Anthropology and Department of Informatics, University of California, Irvine

Convention Center, Hall D

Social media has changed the way we interact in today's society. From the so-called "perfect lives" that are displayed on Facebook and Instagram each day to what seems like an inability to communicate in face-to-face conversations, digital media has changed the way we participate in our world. Mimi Ito is an international expert on how people use mobile technologies and new digital media in their everyday lives. A cultural anthropologist of technology use, she also is a leading authority on how social network technologies are shaping society.

Her newest book is Participatory Culture in a Networked Era: A Conversation on Youth, Learning, Commerce, and Politics, with co-authors danah boyd and Henry Jenkins, examine the ways in which our personal and professional lives are shaped by experiences interacting with and around emerging media. Mimi is an expert on the content of children's educational games and software, their production, distribution, and marketing, and how children use them in play. She has researched a wide range of other digitally-augmented social practices, including online gaming, and social communities. Join Mimi and your colleagues for an interesting discussion about how student affairs can be prepared for the students who will enter college with a new way of participating in their community and culture.

Michael Lomax

President, United Negro College Fund

Convention Center, Hall D

Since 2004, Dr. Michael Lomax has been president and CEO of UNCF, the nation's largest private provider of scholarships and other educational support to African American students and a leading advocate of college readiness: students' need for an education, from pre-school through high school, that prepares them for college success. Under his leadership, UNCF has raised more than $2.5 billion and helped more than 92,000 students earn college degrees and launch careers. Annually, UNCF's work enables 60,000 students to go to college with UNCF scholarships and attend its 37 member historically black colleges and universities. Lomax has worked to provide educational opportunities for African Americans and other Americans of color. Join your colleagues in discussing student success and how student affairs educators can focus our work in today's tumultuous higher education environment.

FEATURED PANEL: Free Speech on Campus

Convention Center, Hall D

Moderator: John Lowery, professor and department chair SAHE, Indiana University of Pennsylvania

Traevena Byrd, general counsel, Towson University

Penny Rue, vice president for campus life, Wake Forest University

Samantha Harris, vice president of policy research, Foundation for Individual Rights in Education

Sigal R. Ben-Porath, professor of education, political science and philosophy, University of Pennsylvania

From congressional hearings and the Department of Justice to college and university campuses throughout the country, free speech is vigorously debated and defended. As educators, we believe that postsecondary education should allow for robust, intellectual conversations which can include disagreement and debate on varying opinions. However, controversial speakers, trigger warnings in classrooms, inflammatory speech, and student protests seem to overshadow the discussion of free speech and expression. Join a prestigious panel of colleagues who will discuss learning and student protest in today's higher education environment while focusing on free speech on campus.

Public Policy Division Featured Session: Can The First Amendment Be "Weaponized"?: Balancing Free Speech and Student Safety Post-Charlottesville

Monday, 8:30 a.m. – 9:45 a.m. Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 1

Nicole Eramo, University of Virginia

Dahlia Lithwick, Slate

Allen Groves, University of Virginia

Samantha Harris, Foundation for Individual Rights in Education

David Parrott, University of Florida

Stephen Sutton, University of California-Berkeley

Berenecea Eanes, California State University-Fullerton

College and university administrators treasure the ideals of open dialogue and free inquiry that are protected by the first amendment of the U.S. Constitution. Nevertheless, many institutions recently have been challenged by students with concerns about language or speakers that they find offensive or hateful. At the same time, some argue that political and social movements like the alt-right are using the first amendment as a pretense to intimidate and invite violence onto our grounds. It is not surprising that state legislatures have entered the debate. Legislation has been passed in many states which include, but are not limited to, restricting the use of free speech zones, enabling administrators with oversight on speaking contracts, and ensuring intellectual diversity discussions. Can the first amendment be "weaponized"? How can student affairs educators best work within their institutions to protect our communities from violence, support student activism and engagement and also preserve one of the ideals held most dear in the academy and our country? Join the Public Policy Division of NASPA for a moderated panel of experts and student affairs administrators as they address these difficult questions.

Managing Crisis on Campus: Leading Through Student Affairs

Monday, 1:15 p.m. – 2:30 p.m. Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 1

Patricia A. Whitely, vice president for student affairs, University of Miami

Richard Walker, vice president for student affairs and enrollment services and vice chancellor for student affairs, University of Houston and University of Houston System

LouLou Hong, vice president for student affairs, San Francisco State University

MaryAnn Tierney, regional administrator, Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA)

When hurricanes, fires, and other natural disasters strike, colleges and universities are at the forefront, working with all constituencies to assess risk and make good decisions. Often, the partnership with FEMA is essential to ensuring that colleges and universities, and their communities recover quickly. Student affairs professionals at all levels of the institution are often employed to manage these crises and their skills are tested when significant crises have the potential to impact the lives of students, staff, and faculty — and overall institutional operations. Effective communication, collaboration, and leadership can prevent a crisis from becoming a catastrophe if the right planning and execution are in place before a situation strikes. Join three vice presidents who experienced significant natural disasters this past year — from hurricanes to fires — and learn what to do to prepare and how to collaborate and be proactive with local FEMA representatives.

NASPA Executive Leadership: Professionalizing the Association

Monday, 3:30 p.m. - 4:45 p.m. Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 1

Moderator: Mike Segawa, NASPA President 2009-2010

Elizabeth M. Nuss, Former Executive Director, NASPA 1987 – 1995 Gwen Dungy, Executive Director Emerita, NASPA 1995 – 2012

Kevin Kruger, NASPA President, 2012 – Present

NASPA, higher education, and student affairs have experienced significant changes in the last forty years. NASPA's decision to move from an office at The Ohio State University to an office in Washington, DC was a watershed event that elevated NASPA and student affairs issues within the larger higher education context. That evolution continues today, For the first time ever, the last three executive leaders of NASPA will be present on the same stage. Elizabeth M. Nuss, dean of undergraduate life at Indiana University became the first DC-based executive director in 1987 and served until 1995. Gwendolyn Jordan Dungy succeeded Nuss as NASPA's executive director and served from 1995-2012, leading during a time of significant expansion of NASPA's programs and services. In 2012, after serving as the associate executive director for 18 years, Kevin Kruger became the first NASPA President and CEO and has advanced the Association and the student affairs profession to where it is today. Join these higher education leaders as they share stories of how NASPA and student affairs has changed over the last thirty-one years.

Legal Update: How to Place Students Permissibly on Mandatory Leave and Then Welcome Them Back

Tuesday, 8:30 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 1

Moderator: Holly Combe Peterson, National Association of College and University Attorneys

Leslie Golden, associate general counsel, Valencia College

Paul Lannon, Holland & Knight LLP

Hannah Ross, general counsel, Middlebury College

It's been over 5 years since the Title II Direct Threat regulations took effect. Early on, with the regulations silent as to any express safe harbor that would have guaranteed colleges and universities reasonable discretion in addressing circumstances implicating imminent harm, institutions struggled with how to address students who posed direct threats to themselves. Over the last five years, the Department of Education has issued a series of resolution agreements that seemingly afford needed flexibility to institutions. In so doing, the Department has recognized institutional efforts to accommodate self-harming students and, in some instances, yielded to their decisions to place students on leave. Geared towards Vice Presidents of Student Affairs and senior level administrators, this legal update will examine:

- · Acceptable practices for responding to self-harming students
- Use of health and safety requirements instead of "direct threat" analysis
- Best practices for individualized assessments
- Lessons learned from surviving both the Office of Civil Rights and Department of Justice review
- Practical tips for special challenges, such as international students, difficult families, etc.

Holistic Advising: Leveraging Data and Working Across Campus for Student Success

Tuesday, 3:30 p.m. - 4:45 p.m. Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 1

Moderator: Amelia Parnell, NASPA

Jennifer Keup, National Resource Center for the First-Year Experience and Students in Transition

Lewis Brown, Council for Adult and Experiential Learning

Ana Borray, EDUCAUSE

As today's college students juggle varying academic, financial, and career priorities, it is now more important than ever that institutions provide holistic advising resources. This panel of experts will discuss national trends in advising, with a focus on how institutions are leveraging data and working cross-functionally to help students make decisions. The session will also address the current landscape of advising strategies, including successful approaches for guiding students along academic and career pathways and using technology to scale effective solutions. The session will conclude with considerations and suggestions for student affairs professionals and other practitioners who have roles that advise priority student populations.

Extended Learning Sessions

These two-hour extended workshops will provide participants with opportunities to critically engage with colleagues and experts in a variety of topics and identify strategic collaborative approaches for addressing current and emerging challenges in the work of student affairs and services. 2018 NASPA Faculty Institute: Graduate Preparation Programs and Preparing Future Professionals

Monday, March 5, 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Sheraton Downtown, Freedom Ballroom E

Natasha Croom, Clemson University Members of the NASPA Faculty Council

The NASPA Faculty Institute is an opportunity for graduate preparation faculty and others interested in the preparation of future staff, administrators, and faculty of the profession to engage in dialogue and synergistic brainstorming around a current issue. The 2018 NASPA Faculty Institute will grapple with how graduate preparation programs prepare future professionals for the realities of the work in postsecondary environments. The Institute will provide a space to dialogue about issues such as socialization of students, teaching and learning approaches, curricular offerings, the role of competencies, and academic program and division relationships. Moreover, the Institute will serve as an opportunity to create and share ideas of teaching and learning related to ensuring that the future professionals in our field are equipped to engage in the thinking and practices needed to support students, one another, and the missions of our institutions. Prior registration was required for these events.

Advancing the Principles of Cultural Diplomacy Through Arts-Based Practice: Creating Human Bonds

Monday, March 5, 2:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m. Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 2

Judith L. Rogers, professor emerita, Miami University of Ohio François Carbon, charge de mission culture and member European Cultural Parliament, University of Luxembourg Denny Roberts, independent consultant, New Dimensions in Education Achim Meyer auf der Heyde, secretary general, Deutsches Studentenwerk, Germany

Cultural diplomacy, as defined by The Berlin Institute for Cultural Diplomacy, includes three principles: respect of cultural diversity; global intercultural dialogue; justice, equality and interdependence. Cultural diplomacy is vital in intercultural relations. Arts-based approaches are particularly effective for developing cultural diplomacy. Both European and U.S. professionals will present arts-based methods for furthering the principles of cultural diplomacy on university campuses.

Closing the Equity Gap: Design Strategies for Institutional Transformation

Tuesday, March 6, 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 2

Sumi Pendakur, chief learning officer and director of the USC Equity Institutes, University of Southern California Vijay Pendakur, dean of students, Cornell University

Broadly, American higher education was designed to serve a specific type of student. In the last 50 years, the compositional diversity of our campuses, along myriad axes of identity, has changed dramatically. Yet our campus practices, including our co-curricular programs and services, remain largely unaltered. This disconnect between our sociohistorical foundations and our current student demographics produces a vast equity gap, whereby marginalized and low social capital students emerge from our institutions with severely diminished outcomes when compared to their privileged peers. We can disrupt this cycle. This extended session will equip participants with four innovative design strategies that they can implement to transform their campuses and their own practices through intentional, justice-centered interventions. Session participants will be engaged by the presenters in a series of mini-TED style talks, punctuated by table-top working sessions where they will operationalize these design strategies in small groups. Participants will emerge empowered and prepared to tackle their institution's equity gaps.

From Vice President of Student Affairs to College President

Tuesday, March 6, 2:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m. Convention Center. Terrace Ballroom 2

Sue Borrego, president, University of Michigan, Flint Diana Doyle, president, Arapahoe Community College Tom Jackson, Jr., president, Black Hills State University Dwaun Warmack, president, Harris-Stowe State University

The path to the presidency is not a traditional one for most student affairs professionals. This panel of esteemed university presidents, who previously served as senior student affairs officers, will address the pressing challenges and professional opportunities for those seeking a route to the President's Suite. This workshop is specifically designed for the senior-most student affairs officer, who potentially aspire to presidential leadership. Space is limited and this session is open only to the senior most student affairs officer on campus including NASPA Voting Delegates.

SA Speaks

Join your colleagues in Convention Center, Hall D for an engaging and inspirational experience of professionals telling their story. During each SA Speaks session join the SA Speaks committee for four inspirational conversations with your colleagues.

SA Speaks Monday, March 5

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. | Convention Center, Hall D | Sponsored by Paperclip Communications

A Decade of Enough is Enough Scott Peska, Waubonsee Community College

NASPA's Enough is Enough campaign has existed for 10 years. The presenter will provide context in moving forward the story of Enough is Enough, raise awareness about gun violence, and explore what student affairs professionals can do to help our society reduce and eliminate this type of violence.

A Year of Yes in Student Affairs

Julia Golden-Battle, Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences

Inspired by Shonda Rhimes, "Year of Yes," the presenter decided to start saying yes to all opportunities that came their way as a student affairs professional. And what a year it has been! From being a national co-chair of the Gender & Sexuality Knowledge Community who asked KCs to be more inclusive, to creating an institute for student affairs professionals of color in NASPA Region I. The presenter's year of yes gave them further exposure in the field, taught them how to trust the power of their own voice and perspective, and underscored the value of using their platform to empower others.

From Foster Care to College: Finding a Family on Campus

Angela Hoffman, Michigan Technological University

Many higher education institutions maintain a systematic assumption that students have the support of a caring family as they pursue a degree. For students with experience in foster care or situations that threaten their family relationship, there may be few supportive adults they can rely on for help navigating the complexities of college life. The presenter will share how supportive adults shaped their college experience, how they inspired the presenter to be an "adultier adult" for students today, and strategies you can apply on your campus.

Self-Care Is Never Selfish, But It's Not Sexy Either

Darien Smith, University of Maryland-College Park

In a profession designed to meet the needs of students within an evolving system of higher education, student affairs educators often forget how to take care of ourselves first. You are invited to travel through the year of depression that nearly broke down a budding student affairs professional. Participants will walk away desiring to draft a personal self-care ritual to help sustain a student-centered career of care.

The Second Time I Ever Saw My Father Cry

John Mark Day, Oklahoma State University-Main Campus

Expectations are powerful things, and sometimes we spend our entire lives trying to live up to them. In the story shared in this session, the presenter will describe how one moment with their father changed everything, and what happened 30 years later when expectations become reality. The presenter will discuss how we shape others with our expectations, and how we become powerful mentors. Let's talk about how the phrase, "I expect," can change everything.

SA Speaks Tuesday, March 6

10:30 a.m. – 11:45 a.m. | Convention Center, Hall D | Sponsored by OOH LALA Mobile

Commands Are No Constraints: Reflections on Activism and Being the Administration

David Surratt, University of California-Berkeley

Through sharing stories and personal reflections from the University of California, Berkeley - the birthplace of the Free Speech Movement - at a time of significant activism and in roles responsible for managing protest for the campus, the presenter will share the valuable lessons learned about how to understand social movement-building and balance support for student activism while managing politics and expectations within the walls of academe.

Life by Design: How to Build True Happiness

Nancy Hunter Denney, Lead365

No one gets a crystal ball, but if you did, what would you do differently to be happier and more content with your personal and professional life? Drawing from her first book, Life by Design: How to Achieve Happiness, the presenter takes a humorous look at the challenges of working in student affairs and offers a step by step plan for constructing a life where you want to reside.

Nevertheless, She Persisted

Sofia Pertuz, Hofstra University

With the current focus on work/life balance, we lose sight of how our careers make us who we are and give us tools we need to handle major life challenges. The presenter focuses on the career and life trajectory of a Latina student affairs professional who found her place in the world where she could bring her best self, and from which she gained skills needed to navigate tragic situations. This Latina professional persisted, nevertheless.

We Are Here! A Challenge to the Student Affairs Profession to Remember Graduate and Professional Students

Dana Bozeman, Northwestern University

When you say students, do you mean all students? NASPA is celebrating its 100th year, however the Administrators in Graduate and Professional Student Services Knowledge Community has only existed for 20 years. As a profession we have not created consistent standards of support for graduate and professional students. We are qualified to support the unique challenges that these students face, from Title IX to imposter syndrome. When graduate and professional students say, "we are here," let them know that you see them.

Where is the Love? The Power of Being an Advocate of Love

Joshua Fredenburg, Saint Mary's College of California

Although love would be considered one of the foundational keys to a healthy and sustainable relationship, leaders such as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Mother Teresa, Mahatma Gandhi, and Nelson Mandela were able to make huge impacts in the world because they were advocates of love who learned how to lead with the power of love. The presenter will help participants learn how to advocate, lead, and experience the transformational power of love to change the world in their everyday lives like these amazing leaders of our past.

SA Speaks Tuesday, March 6

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. | Convention Center, Hall D | Sponsored by Interfaith Youth Core

Being #2: Moving Forward From Failure Deborah Scheibler, Wilkes University

Let's talk about failure! No one wishes to fail, however it is in moments where we fall short of our goals that we often have the greatest opportunities to grow. Indeed, how we rise from failure defines who we are in success. The topics of grit, resiliency, creativity, and the incorporation of a fair amount of humor will guide this presenter to explore the idea of Being

Embracing the Intersections: Reflections on Being a Queer Person of Color in Higher Education

Antonio Duran, The Ohio State University-Main Campus

In this SA Speaks session, the presenter offers a perspective in identifying as a queer person of color in higher education. In addition to providing the presenter's personal narrative, this session will weave in experiences interviewing queer students of color on campus. The presenter will pay special attention to the tensions that result from identifying as part of two marginalized groups, at times feeling unwelcomed in both. Practitioners will learn how to be mindful of multiple marginalized identities in their practice.

Resilience Tree: Growing Pathways to Senior Leadership

Shauna Sobers, The University of Texas at Austin

Ever wondered why there are so few women (and women of color) represented in senior leadership, how to avoid burn out before reaching senior leadership, or how to empower a staff member whom you believe has potential? The presenter will lead a discussion about pathways to persist towards and sustain in senior leadership with the Resilience Tree (environment, roots, branches, and leaves) established based on qualitative research and the lived experience of a mid-level practitioner scholar.

Spoken Word Poetry and the Black College Experience

Maurisa Li-A-Ping, Indiana University-Bloomington

Spoken word poetry is one aspect of communal poetry environments that can support student success on college campuses. This experiential session will feature me performing my original poem, "in this universe, BIk Women are the moon," which explores what it means to feel simultaneously invisible and hyper-visible. Through this poem, I will identify clear connections between communal poetry environments and Black/African-American student success, based on the Culturally Engaging Campus Environments (CECE) Model among racially diverse student populations.

Why Starbucks Taught Me Everything I Know About Student Engagement Russell Aivazian, University of Kentucky

Starbucks baristas begin work every day seeing the company's statement on the back of their aprons: "We create inspired moments in every customer's day." A lot can be learned from Starbucks' practices and values as they relate to our profession. During this SA Speaks session, the presenter (a six-year Starbucks barista and current student affairs professional) will discuss how Starbucks' six "Green Apron Values" can enhance our interactions with students.

Poster Sessions

NASPA Poster Sessions provide an opportunity for conference participants to view promising practices, innovative research, and successful campus programs. Posters will be available for conference attendees to peruse on their own on Monday and Tuesday in the Convention Center Exhibit Hall. Poster presenters will be available from 2:30 p.m. - 3:30 p.m. on both days. Visit the poster sessions during this time to discuss information and findings.

Small Colleges and Universities: Opportunities and Challenges for Vice Presidents for Student Affairs

Saturday, March 3, 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. Convention Center, 113 C Small college and university vice presidents for student affairs have always worn many hats, juggled many roles, and move fluidly within their institutions to advocate for students and create programs and services to ensure student success. The growing complexity and institutional management, compliance, and attention to educational outcomes continues to challenge our daily work. Experts will guide conversations exploring institutional leadership, response to campus incidents, and flexibility in changing roles. Additional fee required.

Greek 101: A Primer for Non-affiliated VPSAs Supervising Fraternity and Sorority Life

Saturday, March 3, 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m. Convention Center, 122 B

There are many roads to the position of vice president for student affairs, and many leaders get into these roles without a background in fraternity and sorority life. Understanding that fraternity and sorority life can serve as a great asset and a significant liability to a campus, those who lead should have some working knowledge of structures, systems, and support to help them in their responsibilities. This workshop will do just that! Additional fee required.

Monday, March 5, 3:30 p.m. - 4:45 p.m. Student unrest, increased racial tensions, immigration policy fallout, heightened public scrutiny and accountability - the list goes on and on. Join fellow VPSAs from similar type institutions to discuss the latest student trends and problem-solve with your peers. These discussions will be framed by the data from the latest NASPA VPSA Census and facilitated by a colleague who will help keep the conversations focused. After the roundtable, continue the conversations during an Annual Conference tradition: the VPSA and Voting Delegate Reception, which immediately follows.

AVP/SENIOR-LEVEL STUDENT AFFAIRS PROFESSIONAL AWARD

Jerry Brewer, Associate Vice President for Student Affairs and Academic Support, University of South Carolina

This award honors a student affairs professional at the AVP or seniorlevel whose outstanding commitment to the profession includes development of programs that address the needs of students, creation of a campus environment that promotes student learning and development, and support of and active engagement in NASPA.

DORIS MICHIKO CHING AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE AS A STUDENT AFFAIRS PROFESSIONAL Naddia Cherre Palacios, Director & CARE Advocate; Campus Advocacy,

Resources & Education, University of California, Riverside

This award, renamed in 2016 after Doris Michiko Ching, emeritus vice president for student affairs for the University of Hawai'i system and NASPA's first woman of color board chair, recognizes individuals with a minimum of five years of experience, who demonstrate outstanding commitment to the profession and who have contributed to programs that address the needs of students and are experienced in creating campus environments that promote student learning and personal development.

THE PRESIDENT'S AWARD

Deneece G. Huftalin, President, Salt Lake Community College

The President's Award is a special recognition given to a college or university president who has, over a sustained period of time, advanced the quality of student life on campus by supporting student affairs staff and programs. Nominees must show evidence of direct involvement in enhancing the quality of student life on campus, active attempts to involve students and student life in governing the institution, and demonstrate contributions to the profession that have an impact beyond an individual campus.

GEORGE D. KUH OUTSTANDING CONTRIBUTION TO LITERATURE AND/OR RESEARCH AWARD

Marcia Baxter Magolda, Professor Emeritus, Miami University

This award honors individuals who have demonstrated a lifetime commitment to research and scholarship relating to higher education. The honoree's work addresses important and substantial issues and has had a significant or transformative effect on higher education and student affairs practice in a national or international context. Named after George D. Kuh, chancellor's professor emeritus at Indiana University, this award honors prolific research and scholarship in higher education.

OUTSTANDING CONTRIBUTION TO HIGHER EDUCATION AWARD

Michael Lomax, President and Chief Executive Officer. United Negro College Fund of the United States

This award honors individuals and organizations that have provided dedicated service, consistent advocacy and outstanding leadership to the higher education community in a national and/or international context. The honoree has made a meaningful and appreciable contribution to the issues and concerns affecting higher education.

ROBERT H. SHAFFER AWARD FOR ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE AS A GRADUATE FACULTY MEMBER

Samuel Museus, Associate Professor of Higher Education and Student Affairs and Director of the National Institute for Transformation and Equity, Indiana University

Established in 1986, this award honors the contributions of Robert H. Shaffer, dean and professor emeritus at Indiana University. This award is given to a tenured faculty member who is teaching full time in a graduate preparation program in student affairs. Nominees must be a personal inspiration to graduate students, have served on doctoral committees, have distinguished records of scholarly achievement including publication in relevant literature, and have made significant contributions to professional associations.

BOBBY E. LEACH EQUITY, DIVERSITY, AND INCLUSION AWARD

Doris Ching, Interim Chancellor, University of Hawai'i - West O'ahu

This award honors a senior student affairs professional or faculty member who has demonstrated a deep commitment to advancing diversity and inclusion throughout their administrative or academic tenure. This award is named in honor of the first person of color to serve as NASPA president and who was also the first African American Administrator at Florida State University. Dr. Leach's life and career was dedicated to bringing people of different backgrounds together for the purpose of promoting equality for all.

FRED TURNER AWARD FOR OUTSTANDING SERVICE TO NASPA

Frank Lamas, Vice President of Student

Affairs and Enrollment Management, California State University, Fresno

Named in honor of one of NASPA's most distinguished past presidents (1958-59) and former senior student affairs officer at the University of Illinois, the Turner Award honors NASPA members who have demonstrated continuous membership for 10 or more years and served in a leadership role at the state, regional, or national level of NASPA.

SCOTT GOODNIGHT AWARD FOR OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE AS A DEAN

Linda Clement, Vice President for Student Affairs, University of Maryland, College Park

Cedric B. Howard, Vice President, Enrollment and Student Services, SUNY Fredonia

This award is given to a dean who has demonstrated sustained professional service in student affairs work, high-level competency in administrative skills, innovative response in meeting students' varied and emerging needs, effectiveness in developing junior staff members, and leadership in community and university affairs. This award recipient must also have earned stature among and support of students, faculty, and fellow administrators on his or her campus and made significant contributions to the field through publications of professional involvement. This award honors NASPA's founding president (1919-20) and former dean of men at the University of Wisconsin.

*Dean refers to any title that denotes the chief student affairs officer on campus.

MELVENE D. HARDEE DISSERTATION-OF-THE-YEAR AWARD

This award encourages high-quality research relevant to the field of college student services administration and the general field of student affairs, and recognizes outstanding dissertation research conducted by doctoral degree recipients presently in or intending to enter the student affairs profession. In 1986, NASPA named this award in honor of Melvene D. Hardee, professor emeritus at Florida State University, in recognition of her commitment to advancing the graduate students and her accomplishments and contributions to higher education and student affairs. The winner and runner-up receive monetary gifts from the NASPA Foundation. The dissertation of the year award will be announced at the NASPA Awards Luncheon.

ZENOBIA HIKES MEMORIAL AWARD

The Zenobia Hikes Memorial Awards is sponsored by the NASPA Center for Scholarship, Research, and Professional Development for Women (Center for Women) to recognize a NASPA member who has demonstrated a commitment to the advancement of women in higher education and to student affairs. This award recognizes NASPA members with at least ten years of full time work in student affairs who have demonstrated a commitment to the advancement of women in higher education and to student affairs, through mentoring and professional development activities. These women also have a strong evidence of contributions to the development of students as engaged citizens and ethical leaders and a record of community service to the profession and locally. The 2018 Hikes Award winner is Lamea Shaaban-Magaña, director, Women's Resource Center, The University of Alabama.

RUTH STRANG RESEARCH AWARD

The Ruth Strang Research Award recognizes individuals for outstanding contributions to the body of literature concerning women in higher education. This award encourages high-quality research related to women in higher education and seeks to promote research by, for, and about women. Submissions may be unpublished articles. academic papers, or portfolios that show strong scholarship and address topics relevant to the education of women and their personal and professional development. The NASPA Center for Women is proud to host this award with support from the NASPA Foundation. The 2018 Strang Award winner is Nicole M. West, assistant director, Global Citizens Project, University of South Florida.

10 Years Serving Campuses Worldwide

FULL DAY PRE-CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS 9:00 AM - 4:00 PM

PC 03A Small Colleges and Universities: Opportunities and Challenges for Vice Presidents for Student Affairs

Convention Center, 113 C Debbie Heida, Berry College Meg Nowak, Hartwick College Sarah Westfall, Kalamazoo College Russell Wigginton, Rhodes College Sandy Olson-Loy, University of Minnesota-Morris Small college and university vice presidents for student affairs have always worn many hats. juggled many roles, and moved fluidly within their institutions to advocate for students and create programs and services to ensure student success. The growing complexity and institutional management, compliance, and attention to educational outcomes continues to challenge our daily work. Experts will guide conversations exploring institutional leadership, response to campus incidents, and flexibility in changing roles.

PC 04 Cultural Competence for Social Justice: A Model for Creating Inclusive Campus Communities

Marriott Downtown, Salon A Marta Esquilin. Rutgers University-Newark Diane Goodman, Consultant

Cultural competency has become a widely discussed topic. Moving beyond simply discussing cultural differences, presenters will share the Cultural Competency for Social Justice (CCSJ) model which aims to create more inclusive environments by addressing dynamics of power, privilege, and inequality. This experiential session will enhance participants' cultural competency and engage them in guided reflection about how to transform their campuses to better serve students from all backgrounds and address issues of inequity.

PC 04A An Interactive Introduction to Design Thinking

Convention Center, 120 B Gregory Bish, Gordon College Eileen Hulme, Azusa Pacific University David Groom, California Polytechnic State University

Student services professionals continue to face the challenge of reimagining and redesigning their programs and services. During this session, participants will explore the design thinking process and the tools needed to move beyond traditional surface level changes. This interactive presentation will provide hands-on activities to teach the fundamentals of the process including empathizing, defining, ideating, and prototyping. Participants will leave prepared to lead their departments in meaningful change processes.

PC 05 Director to AVP: Advice to Aspiring ΔVPs

Convention Center, 109 B

Erik Kneubuehl, East Carolina University Keegan Nichols, Arkansas Tech University Jennifer Pickard, University of Arizona Romando Nash, San Jose State University Amy Pennington, Arkansas Tech University As student affairs educators, the role of the assistant/associate vice president is critical to advancing the profession. This session will cover four primary topics crucial for those who aspire to become an AVP. Through professional development advice, the session will focus on the skills and experience needed to be successful as an AVP. Geared towards those who aspire to be AVPs, the day will be split between topic areas and open discussion.

PC 06 Game Design for Student Success: Creating Pathways to Mastery through College to Career

Convention Center, 110 A

Candis Best, Concordia University-Portland There are many parallels between the "gamer's journey" and the student journey in higher education. Participants will explore the deliberate strategies game designers use to keep players hooked and learn how to apply them to campusbased student success plans. The presenter will engage participants with interactive activities using game design principles to organize existing resources in ways that create student pathways to successful outcomes. Participants will leave with strategies to incorporate game design in their work.

PC 07 Student Affairs Director Competency Development

Convention Center, 111 B Heidi Pettviohn. University of Cincinnati Lauren Clark, University of Cincinnati Debra Merchant, University of Cincinnati Angela Fitzpatrick, University of Cincinnati Katherine Vance, University of Cincinnati William Neater. Thomas More College Portia Watkins, University of Cincinnati Zachary Shirley, University of Cincinnati Successful transition to director roles often requires skills that are rarely formally taught, leaving new directors surprised by the challenges of their role. To help proactively cultivate those skills in developing staff, a leadership development group at Univ. of Cincinnati created a set of Student Affairs Director Competencies and an associated self-assessment. Participants will spend the day creating a professional development action plan based on the rubric. self-assessment, and feedback from peers and presenters.

PC 07A Supervision Across Racial Identities: Tools for Identity Conscious Practices

Convention Center, 120 C

Robert Brown, Northwestern University Shruti Desai, McKendree University Craig Elliott, Samuel Merritt University Most student affairs professionals supervise at some point in their career, but rarely receive skill building around supervision and management. Professional development is often focused on skill building in functional areas yet often ignores the lived experiences of microaggressions, discrimination, and hostility in the workplace that prevent learning and growth. This full day workshop will seek to redefine supervision to include skill building, learning new framework, and a shift to identity sensitive supervision utilizing an identity-conscious framework.

> MORNING HALF-DAY PRECONFERENCE WORKSHOPS 9:00 AM - 12:00 PM

Leading with Purpose: Developing and Implementing Frameworks for Culture Center Success

Convention Center, 113 A

Gena Flynn, Northern Illinois University Talia Carroll, University of Northern Colorado The need for and influence of culture centers is growing. The current socio-political climate identifies identity spaces as safe havens where historically marginalized and underserved students frequent. It is becoming increasingly important for centers to clarify their mission, vision, and values, as well as revisit their purpose and best approaches to supporting core constituents. This workshop will provide attendees with opportunities to actively engage in dialogue and activities with colleagues to fortify the work done by culture center leaders.

Bending the Arc: Community Foundations for Positive Transformation

Convention Center, 109 A DeLa Dos, Emory University

Aysha Daniels, University of West Georgia As disagreements and interpersonal divides continue to grow, student affairs professionals are frequently charged with identifying strategies to translate espoused values of equity, inclusion, and justice into tangible results. This pre-conference is designed to develop the capacity of attendees to create opportunities for effective interpersonal engagement in a manner that enables the beneficial aspects of conflict to support the development of individuals, thus contributing to (pro)actively bending the moral arc of the universe towards justice.

PC 10 Doing the Work on Purpose: Centering QTSOC Experiences in Student Affairs Practice

Convention Center, 121 A Jason Wallace, University of Georgia Meg Evans, University of Georgia Even in our best efforts, student affairs practitioners often overlook and neglect the needs of gueer and trans students of color (QTSOC) on our campuses. Presenters will provide practical tips to better serve QTSOC, within various units in student affairs. Additionally, presenters will provide context around their experiences working with QTSOC underlining the importance of centering this population in your philosophy and praxis to better serve the needs of all students.

PC 11 Strategies for Higher Education Professionals' Career Development: Managing Searches, Transitions, and Cultures

Convention Center, 121 C

Theodore Kruse, American University of Kuwait Nicole Dalberto, Drexel University

Nkenge Ransom-Friday, SIT Study Abroad/World Learnina

Jeffry Neuhouser, Earlham College What are your career aspirations? How will you achieve them? Presenters will guide professionals through impactful and necessary strategies for career enhancement. Without consideration of personal criteria of skills, education, experience and preferences, professionals can end up in organizations/roles that are unfulfilling. Using an evaluation of external factors (cultures, markets, etc.), self-reflection practices, and strategic search processes, participants will develop a comprehensive strategy to manage their ongoing career development.

PC 12 Creating Educational Environments that Nurture Post-Traumatic Growth in Students

Convention Center, 122 A

Pamela Larde, Mercer University Participants will be introduced the concept of post-traumatic growth, as well as understand research-driven strategies designed to support. advocate for, and empower students who are managing traumatic or distressed home and family environments. Results are focused on how student affairs professionals can implement strategies and impart coping skills that nurture post-traumatic growth, helping students better integrate into the educational environment and advance to college while managing current or past traumatic experiences.

PC 13 Exploring Problems in Student Affairs Across Functional Areas: Using Case Studies to Relate Theory to Practice

Convention Center, 122 B

Stacy Jacob, Slippery Rock University of Pennsylvania

Molly Mistretta, Slippery Rock University of Pennsylvania

Two authors of Complex Cases in Student Affairs: Preparing Early Career Professionals for Practice (Routledge, 2018) will teach workshop attendees how to work through problems in the field through the use of cases' illustrating how to link theory to practice and develop theory based solutions to problems. The workshop is for practitioners in charge of staff training, faculty, and graduate students who want to learn how to put the theories they have learned to use.

AFTERNOON HALF-DAY PRECONFERENCE WORKSHOPS 1:00 PM - 4:00 PM

PC 14 Navigating Student Activism, Leadership, and Civic Education Around the Country

Convention Center, 109 A

Amy Ackerman, University of Virginia Rodney Prad, Temple University Sean Hutchinson, La Salle University The need for civic learning and democratic engagement at higher education institutions is more important than ever. Presenters will address the elements of developing a civicminded institution and how they can be enhanced at various types of colleges and universities. Participants will conduct a review of their own institution. A panel comprised of professionals from the area will share perspectives on how their institutions and offices are navigating these topics and responding to current events.

PC 14A Faith Over Fear 2.0: Examining the Intersectionality of Christian Identity and Student Affairs Culture Among Student Affairs Professionals

Convention Center, 113 B

Raphael Moffett, Texas Southern University Lamar Hylton, Kent State University Joshua Busby, Langston University Presenters will expand the conversation on how spirituality, from a Christian lens, informs the work of student affairs professionals. Participants will discuss (1) is it right to try to integrate my faith with my role on campus; (2) if so, how can I authentically live my Christian values and principles in a secular workplace? (3) can I reconcile my faith based convictions with the culture of student affairs. (4) how do I have a positive impact on students and colleagues who may have opposing viewpoints?

PC 16 Roundtable on Diversity and Equity: Envisioning Our Work Ahead During Challenging Times

Convention Center, 121 A

Monroe France, New York University Corlisse Thomas, Rutgers University-Newark Leah Lattimore, New York University Marcella Runell Hall, Mount Holyoke College Felicia McGinty, Rutgers University Join seasoned diversity and senior student affairs educators for a Roundtable on Diversity and Equity! Participants will reflect on the ways the current national and global political landscape, the rise of white nationalism and supremacy, the increase in campus activism and crisis situations is impacting our work; institutional policies and practices; our professional roles and responsibilities; our leadership and our own values. Participants will have the opportunity to engage in an interactive, real and authentic dialogues.

PC 17 A Step-by-Step Guide to Co-Curricular Mapping

Convention Center, 121 C

Adam Peck, Stephen F Austin State University Kate Griffin, Campus Labs

Ted Elling, University of North Carolina at Charlotte

Anna Liza Garcia, California State University-Dominauez Hills

Learning does not take place in discrete and isolated episodes. In student affairs, however, the way that many approach assessment does not reflect this understanding. Our approach fails to capture students' learning over time or demonstrate how it connects to their academic learning. Many have suggested that co-curricular mapping is a way to address these issues - but few know how to approach it. Presenters will provide simple, step-by-step instructions for constructing co-curricular maps.

PC 18 Transforming Orientation, Transition and Retention Programs to Support the Success of All Students

Convention Center, 122 A

Joyce Holl, Association for Orientation, Transition, and Retention

Quincy Spencer, University of Arkansas In order to develop a successful orientation, transition, and retention (OTR) strategy, student affairs educators must identify the challenges and issues that need to be addressed in OTR programming. Presenters will focus on the development and delivery of programs and learning experiences during student transitions. The presenters will introduce evidence-based practices, including research and assessment findings to guide OTR practice, and participants will develop an action plan to address these issues.

PC 19 Greek 101: A Primer for Non-affiliated VPSAs Supervising Fraternity and Sorority Life

Convention Center, 122 B

Kathryn Cavins-Tull, Texas Christian University Bernard Schulz, East Carolina University Jeffrey Waple, Southern Illinois University Edwardsville

Janna Basler, University of Missouri-Columbia There are many roads to the position of Chief Student Affairs Officer and many leaders get into these roles without a background in fraternity and sorority life. Understanding that fraternity and sorority life can serve as a great asset and a significant liability to a campus, those who lead should have some working knowledge of structures, systems, and support to help them in their responsibilities. This workshop will do just that!

PC 19A When Keeping It Real Goes Right: Lessons Learned from Political, Media and Litigation Sagas

Convention Center, 113 A

Jason Laker, San Jose State University Rickey Hall, University of Washington

"Politics" in our field and institutions tends to reference interpersonal dramas and dilemmas of working in a bureaucratic hierarchy. Most messy situations are short-lived and resolved through resilience, patience and support. But, some are shocking and potentially ruinous. A Chief Diversity Officer whose office was defunded by the State Legislature; and a former VPSA and current professor who blew the whistle on a sexual harassment cover-up each lived to share their stories and lessons learned.

Amelia Parnell, NASPA

Carolyn Livingston, Carleton College Dennis Pruitt, University of South Carolina Lisa Cooper Wilkins, San Joaquin Delta College Jeffrey C. Sun, University of Louisville

The NASPA Vice Presidents for Student Affairs Institute gathers VPSAs (or the equivalent) for a full day of interactive sessions and guided discussions relevant for executive-level institutional leaders responsible for navigating today's rapidly changing, indeed tumultuous, higher education environment.

PC 23 AVP Pre-Conference: Leading from the Unique Role of the AVP

Convention Center, 109 B

Angela Chong, The College of New Jersey Darryl Holloman, Georgia State University Romando Nash, San Jose State University Andre Fortune, The University of Texas at Arlington

AVPs serve a unique role in the student affairs organizational structure. They are viewed as both an executive level leader and a middle manager. The AVP Pre Con presenters will draw on both of these constructs utilizing AVP: Leading from the unique role of associate/assistant vice president for student affairs (Hecht & Pina, 2016). Participants are strongly encouraged to read the book ahead of time as a true value added component to the pre-conference.

PC 24 Transforming the Meeting: Creating. Empowering, and the Art of Hosting Socially Just Conversations

Convention Center, 111 B

Ken Schneck, Baldwin Wallace University What if we stopped hiring expert diversity consultants/"big-name" speakers and dramatically transformed the endless loop of meetings that never result in action? This supremely interactive workshop will introduce participants to " The Art of Hosting, " a paradigm shift of approach and activities that taps into the skills and knowledge of campus community members to (1) build the capacity to have difficult and meaningful conversations, and (2) create the change that desperately needs to happen on our campuses.

PC 25 Asian Pacific Islanders Promoting Educational eXcellence (APPEX)

Convention Center, 112 B

Kristen Wong, George Washington University-Graduate School of Education & Human Development Sue Ann Huang, Seattle University

Justin Hua, Georgia State University

Susan Huynh, New York University

Elaine Jessica Tamargo, University of California-Los Angeles

Peter Huu Tran, New York University Tedd Vanadilok, Santa Clara University Victoria Yu, Princeton University

APPEX is an interactive pre-conference session designed to cultivate the professional development of Asian and Pacific Islander (API) student affairs professionals in a multi-culturally competent and holistic context. In its twelfth year, presenters will focus on sustaining a pipeline for API graduate students, new professionals, and mid-level professionals by providing tools to guide their pathways and transitions. Presenters will also address current API issues related to leadership development, intersections of identities, and career growth.

PC 26 Discrimination. Not Just an Undergraduate Issue: Discriminatory Behavior Experienced at the Graduate and Professional Level

Domonique Crosby, Washington University in St

Brittany Bynum, Washington University in St

The New Professionals and Graduate Students Symposium hosted by The New Professionals & Graduate Students Knowledge Community is an opportunity for this group to learn, share, network, and develop both personally and professionally. This opportunity allows new professionals and graduate students to draw on their first years of experience to improve their overall effectiveness, learn from others, as well as to develop personal awareness.

MORNING HALF-DAY PRE-CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS

PC 30 Collaborative Solutions for Complex Problems: Preventing Disability Complaints on Your Campus

Marriott Downtown, 305

Neal Lipsitz, College of the Holy Cross Eileen Berger, Harvard University Graduate School of Education

Michael Berger, Simmons College During this session, a novel conceptual framework will be introduced, providing tools to promote efficient and effective delivery of disability services and in other areas of student affairs. The framework considers achievement, selfadvocacy and socialization skills, institutional policy and campus cultural attitudes. Presenters will use a case study model to demonstrate how collaboration in student support - consisting of faculty, disability services, senior administration and parents/guardians-provides a best-practice approach to service delivery.

Multiracial Students and Transracial Adoptees Finding Their Place in Racial Justice Activism

Convention Center, 115 B

Benjamin Beltran, Trinity Washington University Nicholas Franco. Eastern Washington University Hannah White, University of Arizona Willa Kurland, Seattle University Russell Nelson, University of Vermont While student activism on college campuses is not new, there has been a resurgence of highly-publicized campaigns in recent years. Multiracial students can struggle to find their place in current racial justice movements. Content will be joined at the intersections of multiracial identity and student activism, integrating multiracial and transracial adoptee identity development. Ways in which monoracism and multiracial microaggressions can shape multiracial and transracial adoptees' placemaking in racial justice movements will also be addressed.

PC 34 Becoming an Individual & Institutional Advocate for First-generation College Students

Convention Center, 115 C

Brett Bruner, Fort Hays State University Whitnee Boyd, Texas Christian University Wendy Bruun, Northern Arizona University Sarah Whitley, NASPA

A large proportion of college students identify as first-generation - 62 percent at all postsecondary institutions and 47 percent at four-year institutions. However, first-generation college students graduate with baccalaureate degrees at lower rates than their continuing-generation peers. This pre-conference workshop will focus on advocacy of first-generation college students at an institutional and individual level for student affairs professionals of all functional areas and at all levels within a college or university.

PC 35 Stories of Courage: Campus Safety and Violence Prevention

Convention Center, 116

Katie Treadwell, University of Kansas Jonathon Hyde, Louisiana State University Scott Peska, Waubonsee Community College Marc Ebelhar, Georgia State University Kaitlin Logan Wimmer, Creighton University As NASPA celebrates its 100th annual conference, the Campus Safety and Violence Prevention Knowledge Community recognizes the moments of crisis that shaped a century of student affairs leaders. Presenters will offer a historical look at campus safety and violence prevention initiatives, as well as commemorate lessons learned from the profession's most tragic days. Senior student affairs officers who led their campus through high-profile crises will offer reflections on their experience and lessons for navigating the changing nature of campus safety.

PC 36 Engaging Parents & Engage Parents & En Supporting the Holistic Well-Being of Students

Convention Center, 117

Kimberly Sterritt, The University of Alabama Raquel Cabral, Florida Atlantic University Katie Treadwell, University of Kansas Maureen Hawkins, University of Central Florida When families entrust an institution with their student, they are commonly concerned about their general well-being and success. Campus safety, sexual and relationship violence, alcohol, and other drugs all contribute to the well-being of the student. Often institutions struggle with how to tackle these topics with families to better educate without increasing anxiety. Presenters will explore ways that institutions can communicate with and engage families to increase student safety and well-being.

PC 37 Writing for Professional Publication: A NASPA Journals-sponsored Intensive Workshop

Convention Center, 118 A

Amy Bergerson, University of Utah Bridget Kelly, Loyola University Chicago Melanie Lee, University of Utah Art Munin, University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh Writing for professional publication is an important and useful skill for student affairs practitioners, doctoral students, and faculty. This intensive writing workshop will introduce authors new to professional writing to the processes of writing for publication in professional journals. Primary goals for this workshop are helping emerging writers identify a topic, discover tools for facilitating the writing process, and understand the publication process. Participants engage in free writing during the workshop and will leave the session with a writing action plan.

PC 38 Addressing Student Mental Health: Understanding the Past in Order to Plan for the Future

Richard Keeling, Keeling & Associates, LLC Ruperto Perez, The University of Alabama Suzanne Onorato, University of Connecticut An understanding of the history and development of counseling services on college campuses can support leaders as they plan to address current and future mental health needs of students. Presenters will review the context that has led to today's counseling models. With this background, participants will work individually and collectively to create plans, informed by both panelists and peers, to address the student mental health needs that they see over the next five to ten years.

PC 39 Further Exploring Technology's Role in Student Affairs

Convention Center, 122 A

Edmund Cabellon, Bridgewater State University Joe Sabado, University of California-Santa Barbara

Jeremiah Baumann, Michigan Technological University

Paul Schantz, California State University-Northridge Josie Ahlquist, Florida State University Tyneka Harris Coronado, DePaul University Given technology's swift evolution and a lack of foundational education in most graduate preparatory programs, it is imperative we further explore technology's role and impact to student learning and staff development. Grounded in the latest research and ACPA/NASPA competencies, the presenters will highlight recommended practices for digital technology, website development, and marketing while sharing how best to navigate campus politics to positively impact student recruitment, engagement, and retention.

PC 40 Bridging Relationships Across Difference: Using Intergroup Dialogue method to Cultivate Inclusive Campuses

Convention Center, 122 B

Dellareese Jackson, Syracuse University Diane Romo, Syracuse University Crafting campuses that are inclusive requires intentionality! This interactive workshop will demonstrate how Intergroup Dialogue methods can be put into practice across various university settings to incite meaningful inter- racial/ ability/faith/gender/sexuality relationships and connections across campus. By completion of this session participants will walk away with tangible techniques, methods, practices, activities, and resources for increasing multicultural competencies of both staff and students.

PC 40A Mind the Gap: Strategies for Bridging Student and Academic Affairs

Convention Center, 113 C

Dustin Grabsch, Texas A&M University Lori Moore, Texas A&M University Cvnthia Hernandez. Texas A&M University Katia Crawford, Texas A&M University Darby Roberts, Texas A&M University Malini Natarajarathinam, Texas A&M University Student affairs' integration with academics is a necessity rather than just an expectation. We all have a role to play to bridge the gap between academic affairs and student affairs. Arguably this gap is one of the biggest inhibitors in developing campus environments that promote student success. Come ready to engage in meaningful dialogue with colleagues as we review the history of the gap, discuss cultural currencies, review the academic partnership continuum and share various frameworks in practice to ensure successful collaborators.

AFTERNOON PRE-CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS

PC 41 Student and Academic Affairs: Forging Interculturally Competent Partnerships

Marriott Downtown, 305

Karen Boyd, The University of Tennessee Elizabeth Boretz, California State University-

Tony Cawthon, Clemson University Kirk Robinson, Miami University-Ohio R. Gary Hartz, Guam Community College Bree Shepard, The University of Tennessee Have you even noticed that your partners seem to be speaking a different language or coming at you collaborations from a different set of unspoken rules? Faculty and administrators expect students to become interculturally sensitive and responsive, we need these same skills to be successful in our work relationships. This pre-conference workshop provides in-depth exploration of collegiate professional subcultures and the intercultural theories that support practitioners to navigate, improve, and sustain student-academic affairs collaborations.

PC 42 Showing up for and with Each Other: Solidarity Among Communities of Color

Marriott Downtown, 306

Monisha Muriani. National Program Manager Victor Sanchez, University of California, Berkeley This is a space for people of color to engage in dialogue about solidarity across communities of color. Presenters will review solidarity frameworks and apply those directly to communities of color and ways that we can show up with and for each other. The discussion will be framed through a historical lens as well as through critical race foundations. This session should particularly benefit participants of color who are interested in engaging across communities and, learning from and with each other about ways to show up in community.

PC 42A Utilizing Alternative Programming Formats to Engage Millennials

Convention Center, 113 C Melissa Flowers, Trinity University Rachel Boaz, Trinity University Lyndsey Aquilar, Wheaton College Presenters will detail the importance of diversifying programming formats to meet the needs of various learners and will provide concrete suggestions for how to design engaging programs aimed towards digitally-savvy and/ or overcommitted students. Participants will learn about some of Trinity University's NASPA Excellence Award-winning programs and opportunities for participants to practice with cutting-edge technologies designed to meet any budget or level of experience.

PC 43 NASPA LEAD Initiative: Moving Beyond the Basics: Utilizing Competencies, Skills, and Agency to Grow in Civic and Community Change

Convention Center, 121 B

Jennifer Johnson Kebea, Drexel University Danielle Leek, Campus Compact

Stephanie King, NASPA

Being an active civic and community engagement professional requires a specific set of skills and know-how which are often evolving to meet the needs of our communities. In order to best prepare individuals and campuses for this work, the NASPA LEAD Initiative and Campus Compact are partnering to share in the specialized cultivation of professionals in the Civic Learning and Democratic Engagement space. Participants attending this session can anticipate engaging in a selfassessment related to competencies in the field, developing a professional development plan, and identifying strategies to advocate for professionals seeking support for civic engagement learning.

PC 44 Our Stories, Resilience, and Unconscious Bias: The Change We Need

Convention Center, 115 B

Dayspring Mattole, Reed College Claudia Ramirez Islas, Reed College

While many educators are aware of unconscious bias, most would benefit from deeper reflection their own biases and experiences. Presenters will provide an overview of unconscious bias, with a focus on strategies for recognizing and addressing biases, managing biases experienced in and out of the workplace, and influencing change. Presenters will empower participants with tools to be resilient in the workplace and to be agents of change on the individual, group, and organizational level.

PC 45 Financial Wellness Personalized: Applications and Self Exploration for the Student Affairs Professional

Convention Center, 115 C

Morgan McMillan, Indiana University-Bloominaton

Paola Hernandez Barón, Indiana University-Bloomington

Philip Schuman, Indiana University-Bloomington Participants will gain knowledge and tools to better understand the intersection among finances, mental health, identity and values, and overall well-being from the perspective of the practitioners but also in working with students. Presenters will discuss financial well-being from both an individual and group/programmatic perspective. Presenters will address theoretical models, student development theory, and practical applications of concepts including discussions focused on financial literacy such as budgeting, credit, debt repayment, savings, and retirement.

PC 46 Understanding Title IX: Policy, Process & Moving Forward to Eliminate Sexual Violence on Campus

Convention Center, 116

Corey Benson, University of Houston-Clear Lake Patience Bryant, California State University-Long

Juhi Bhatt, Fashion Institute of Technology Colleen Sonnentag, University of Northern Colorado

Matt Peterson, Front Range Community College Cory Davis, Keene State College

Mikiba Morehead, Baylor College of Medicine Rowen Thomas, University of Northern Colorado With evolving developments in Title IX compliance. institutions of higher education must remain cognizant of the ethical and legal obligations to prevent and respond to sexual misconduct and gender discrimination. In this session, attendees will examine administrative law, case law, and legislation relating to Title IX compliance. Title IX Investigators, student conduct officers, and Title IX Coordinators will answer questions regarding the investigation and adjudication of allegations of sexual misconduct and gender discrimination.

PC 47 Becoming a Student Affairs Researcher: A Session for Practitioners

Convention Center, 117

J. Patrick Biddix, The University of Tennessee Brian Bourke, Murray State University Gavin Henning, New England College Kurt Keppler, Louisiana State University Eric Norman, Indiana University Purdue University Fort Wayne

Laura Osteen. Florida State University Darby Roberts, Texas A&M University Matthew Wawrzynski, Michigan State University Recently, there has been considerable interest and discussion about research as a function of student affairs practice. This session is intended to help practitioners at the introductory and intermediate level of research and assessment skill competency move their research interests and ideas into publication. Published practitioners, members of the Assessment, Evaluation, and Research Knowledge Community leadership team, journal editors, and faculty research advisors will be available to discuss the professional and scholarly research process in a roundtable style format.

PC 48 Spirituality, Secularism, and Religion in Higher Education: Where We've Been, Where We Are, And Where We're Going

Convention Center, 118 A

Zachary Cole, Tufts University

Amy Fisher, Suffolk University

Sable Manson, University of Southern California Ross Wantland, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

As NASPA celebrates its 100th anniversary, the Spirituality & Religion in Higher Education Knowledge Community is looking back at "Where We've Been" by examining the historical context of religious movements in American history, and on college campuses. We'll explore "Where We Are" by looking at interfaith assessment, social justice work, #DigitalFaith, and multifaith spaces on campus. Finally, we'll look ahead at "Where We're Going" through a panel of nationally recognized leaders in religion, spirituality, and secular engagement.

PC 49 Healing the Divide: Tools for Addressing Polarization and Conflict

Convention Center, 121 C

Jason Patent, Robertson Center for Intercultural Leadership, University of California, Berkeley Lauren Moloney-Egnatios, Robertson Center for Intercultural Leadership, University of California,

Ever-greater political, racial, and socio-economic polarization within our communities and on our campuses has introduced new challenges that we, as educators, need to address. One such challenge is the conflict created by this polarization. Successfully and productively managing this conflict requires a creative approach and skill set, so that we may prepare ourselves and our students to effectively communicate and engage across difference. This interactive workshop will equip participants will skills and strategies to manage conflict.

PC 50 Designing & Implementing an Extended Orientation Experience

Convention Center, 122 A

Brett Bruner, Fort Hays State University Re'Shanda Grace-Bridges, University of Dayton Taylor Kriley, Fort Hays State University Extended orientation programs have become commonplace on college campuses across the nation as a means to support the transition of new students into the collegiate environment (Cox, Salazar, & Payton, 2017). These programs are commonly designed separately from traditional summer orientation programs and support students in succeeding and persisting. This preconference workshop is designed for institutions that do not have an extended orientation experience and are interested in learning how to build a program.

PC 51 Student Affairs Moms' Quests for Work-life Integration

Convention Center, 122 B Leanna Fenneberg, Rider University Alex White, University of Mississippi Jemilia Davis, North Carolina State University Sara Hinkle, West Chester University Women in student affairs experience considerable demands of time and energy. Pairing those demands with responsibilities as a mom creates the ultimate balancing act. Presenters will provide student affairs moms (or aspiring moms) brave space to focus on you, knowing you can't effectively serve others until you care for yourself. Tips informed by literature and perspectives from student affairs moms with varied professional and personal experiences will frame opportunities for reflection to improve your individual quest for work-life integration.

PC 52 UndocuTraining: Supporting Undocumented Students

Convention Center, 120 B Diana Valdivia, University of California-Santa Barbara

Laura Bohórguez, University of Maryland Undocu Trainings address the ways in which student affairs professionals including staff, faculty, and administrators can support undocumented students at their respective institutions. Participants will engage in interactive activities and discussions about current immigration and education policies and share best practices that help guide the way they advocate and support this student population. Presenters will use storytelling techniques, theory and research to help participants establish action plans at their institutions.

PC 53 Sharing the Indigenous Protocol Practice Policy

Sheraton Philadelphia Downtown, Freedom Ballroom E

Alejandro Magana, Northwestern University Charlotte Davidson, Independent Consultant Jamie Singson, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaian

Stephanie Waterman, University of Toronto The Indigenous Peoples Knowledge Community (IPKC) recommended that NASPA create policy and practice that improves the climate of its meetings by developing an official Indigenous Protocol Practice Policy. The intention of the policy is to advocate for the respectful usage of cultural materials; and understanding of the importance of protocol when dealing with local Indigenous communities. Presenters will identify the motivations for and the process undertaken and the positive outcomes of this policy development.

Extended Pre-Conference Workshops

Saturday, March 3, 8:00 a.m. – 5:30 p.m. Sunday, March 4, 8:00 a.m. – 2:30 p.m.

PC 1 Undergraduate Student Pre-conference

Offsite, Temple University

Kevin Williams, Temple University Jimmy Doan, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The NASPA Undergraduate Student Conference provides a first-hand learning opportunity for undergraduate students to gain knowledge and understanding of student affairs work, awareness of professional associations, engages participants in networking opportunities, and provides resources to assist in defining their career trajectory in student affairs.

Saturday, March 3, 4:00 p.m. – 9:00 p.m. Sunday, March 4, 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

PC 2 NASPA International Symposium

Sheraton Philadelphia Downtown, Liberty Ballroom A

Theodore Kruse, American University of Kuwait Enrique Lara-Nuño. Arkansas State University. Querétaro

As the field of student affairs continues to develop globally, focused opportunities for an intentional, international exchange of ideas are becoming more critical. The NASPA International Symposium facilitates the advancement of a global discussion and worldwide understanding of student affairs as a field, and, in many countries, a profession. The International Symposium expands on the conference theme by including global perspectives. Key Symposium goals are to invite and explore new perspectives, and to create new connections in order to bridge global boundaries.

Saturday, March 3, 12:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m. Sunday, March 4, 8:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

NASPA Community Colleges Institute (CCI)

Sheraton Philadelphia Downtown, Philadelphia Ballroom

The NASPA Community Colleges Institute will provide a high-quality professional development experience to those serving in a student affairs or services capacity at community colleges and open enrollment institutions. Participants will explore high-impact, innovative, evidence-based practices, as well as have the opportunity to engage in meaningful discussions with colleagues. The focused content will allow participants to generate ideas, develop action plans, and will serve as a catalyst to move the profession forward.

The CCI is sponsored in part by InsideTrack.

FEATURED SPEAKER

Monday, March 5

1:15 p.m. – 2:30 p.m. Convention Center, Hall D

Mimi Ito

Professor in Residence, Department of Anthropology and Department of Informatics, University of California, Irvine

Social media has changed the way we interact in today's society. From the so-called "perfect lives" that are displayed on Facebook and Instagram each day to what seems like an inability to communicate in face-to-face conversations, digital media has changed the way we participate in our world. Mimi Ito is an international expert on how people use mobile technologies and new digital media in their everyday lives. A cultural anthropologist of technology use, she also is a leading authority on how social network technologies are shaping society.

Her newest book is Participatory Culture in a Networked Era: A Conversation on Youth, Learning, Commerce, and Politics, with co-authors danah boyd and Henry Jenkins, examine the ways in which our personal and professional lives are shaped by experiences interacting with and around emerging media.

FEATURED SPEAKER

Tuesday, March 6

8:30 a.m. - 9:45 a.m. Convention Center, Hall D

Michael Lomax President, United Negro College Fund

Since 2004, Dr. Michael Lomax has been president and CEO of UNCF, the nation's largest private provider of scholarships and other educational support to African American students and a leading advocate of college readiness: students' need for an education, from pre-school through high school, that prepares them for college success, Under his leadership, UNCF has raised more than $2.5 billion and helped more than 92,000 students earn college degrees and launch careers. Annually, UNCF's work enables 60,000 students to go to college with UNCF scholarships and attend its 37 member historically black colleges and universities. Lomax has worked to provide educational opportunities for African Americans and other Americans of color. Join your colleagues in discussing student success and how student affairs educators can focus our work in today's tumultuous higher education environment.

FEATURED EDUCATIONAL SESSION Tuesday, March 6

8:30 a.m. - 9:45 a.m.

Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 1

TNACUA

Legal Update: How to Place Students Permissibly on Mandatory Leave and Then Welcome Them Back

Moderator: Holly Combe Peterson, National Association of College and University Attorneys Leslie Golden, associate general counsel, Valencia College

Paul Lannon. Holland & Knight LLP

Hannah Ross, general counsel, Middlebury College

It's been over 5 years since the Title II Direct Threat regulations took effect. Early on, with the regulations silent as to any express safe harbor that would have guaranteed colleges and universities reasonable discretion in addressing circumstances implicating imminent harm, institutions struggled with how to address students who posed direct threats to themselves. Over the last five years, the Department of Education has issued a series of resolution agreements that seemingly afford needed flexibility to institutions. In so doing, the Department has recognized institutional efforts to accommodate self-harming students and in some instances, yielded to their decisions to place students on leave.

FEATURED PANEL Tuesday, March 6

1:15 p.m. – 2:30 p.m. Convention Center, Hall D

Free Speech on Campus

From congressional hearings and the Department of Justice to college and university campuses throughout the country, free speech is vigorously debated and defended. As educators, we believe that postsecondary education should allow for robust, intellectual conversations which can include disagreement and debate on varying opinions. However, controversial speakers, trigger warnings in classrooms, inflammatory speech, and student protests seem to overshadow the discussion of free speech and expression. Join a prestigious panel of colleagues who will discuss learning and student protest in today's higher education environment while focusing on free speech on campus.

Traevena Byrd general counsel, Towson University

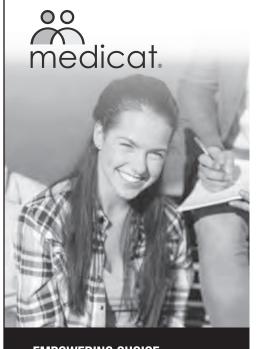

Penny Rue vice president for campus life, Wake Forest University

Samantha Harris vice president of policy research, Foundation for Individual Rights in Education

Sigal R. Ben-Porath professor of education, political science and philosophy, University of Pennsylvania

3:30 p.m. - 4:45 p.m.

Convention Center, Terrace Ballroom 1

NASPA & Student Affairs: Forty Years of Leadership in Washington, DC

MODERATOR: Mike Segawa, NASPA President 2009-2010

Elizabeth M. Nuss, Former Executive Director, NASPA 1987 – 1995

Gwen Dungy, Executive Director Emerita, NASPA 1995 – 2012

Kevin Kruger, NASPA President, 2012 – Present

NASPA, higher education, and student affairs have experienced significant changes in the last forty years. NASPA's decision to move from an office at The Ohio State University to an office in Washington, DC was a watershed event that elevated NASPA and student affairs issues within the larger higher education context. That evolution continues today. For the first time ever, the last three executive leaders of NASPA will be present on the same stage. Elizabeth M. Nuss, dean of undergraduate life at Indiana University became the first DC-based executive director in 1987 and served until 1995. Gwendolyn Jordan Dungy succeeded Nuss as NASPA's executive director and served from 1995-2012, leading during a time of significant expansion of NASPA's programs and services. In 2012, after serving as the associate executive director for 18 years, Kevin Kruger became the first NASPA President and CEO and has advanced the Association and the student affairs profession to where it is today. Join these higher education leaders as they share stories of how NASPA and student affairs has changed over these forty years.

M. BEN HOGAN SMALL COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES INSTITUTE

The NASPA M. Ben Hogan Small Colleges and Universities Institute is a three-day residential program during which vice presidents for student affairs and other senior-level administrators engage in discussion and reflection about critical issues in student affairs and the examination of effective and innovative programs. An intentional component of the institute is living and learning together on the host campus.
